

THE HIGHEST PEAK

Breath means more here
It makes itself known
I suppose if you're a fish in the ocean
You think less about breathing than when on the line
But it's more than the altitude
It's more than food to hunger
It's awe
And a little fear
I think the best awe has a little fear in it
The wind howls "you don't belong here"
I believe that
Yet here I stand
Inhale
Here I stand
Exhale
I've been given dominion over you, mountain
I look upon your brothers and sisters
No two alike but undeniable in your relation
Those who came before me
May have thanked you
Even looked to you for answers
But I know you hold no answers
You only reach to the highest peak
Well, I reach to the highest peak too
And as vast as you are
And as infinitesimal as I am
We both are nothing to the highest peak
For that peak is unscalable
Unknowable and
Without limit
I revere you as I do the moon
It's glow merely a reflection of the mighty sun
